To whom it may concern,

Justis Pettit is an excellent candidate for any college program. He was very successful in my Chemistry class, and he worked hard to be successful in every facet of the class. His interest in doing well can be seen by the level of his work in class. His math and writing skills are superb and he would be able to handle complicated material.

Although he has a very quiet demeanor, he does very well with working in groups and communicating ideas for projects and presentations. Other group members know he will get the job done and make sure it's done well. His group's presentations were always thorough and insightful. At the beginning of the year, I would sometimes worry about how quiet he was during lectures and working on problems in class. However, I began to realize that it was because he understood the material before others in class and when he did need a little guidance, he communicated that very well. He often solved issues he was having with a problem himself. He was not afraid to struggle for a bit.

Justus has a wonderful attitude coming into every class. He always had a smile on his face and welcomed you with a "Hello!" and a "Thank You!" at the end of the day.

After considering all that I have seen of Justus, I see him as highly intelligent, passionate, and very motivated to enter any college program. I highly recommend him for any educational opportunities that arise. I think he would benefit from the experience and would not let you down in any way.

Sincerely,

Geoffrey Quiring
